

Labycare-Spatula (SKSS-SE016)

Spatula

Description :

A spatula is a laboratory tool used for handling, transferring, and mixing small quantities of solid chemicals. It is commonly used to scrape substances or powders from containers. Made of metal or plastic, it ensures safe handling and prevents contamination during experiments and sample preparation in laboratories.